April 19th, 2019 - I was looking at outboard motor prices from know brands like Mercury Honda Yamaha 15 HP and the likes to mount on a 14 foot fishing boat. When I saw the prices 150 and up per horsepower I thought a cheaper alternative would be one of those long tail outboard motors Thais use.

10 HP longtail vs 10 HP conventional outboard performance
April 18th, 2019 - So a 10Hp outboard is actually a little more after the gearing while a 10 Hp long shaft long tail will have less Hp at the prop side after losses in the bearing. The outboard thrust line is almost parallel to the waterline increasing efficiency while a long tail is forced to have an angled thrustline which could affect planing or trim angle.
